LIFE Hebrews 13:1–3

CONNECT

1. What unique experiences have you walked through that give you special compassion and empathy for others in similar situations? (Examples: Job loss, infertility, health challenges, recovery from addiction, etc.) When have you had the opportunity to utilize that to walk alongside someone?

GOING DEEPER

2. Read Hebrews 13:3. Pray together that the Holy Spirit would give you open hearts to hear and respond to the Word of God.
3. The way we are called to remember those on the margins is through identification—"as though in prison with them." What's the difference between identifying with someone (stepping into their story) and merely taking pity on them or viewing them vindictively?
4. The basis of our calling to remember is that we are fellow image-bearers ("since you also are in the body"). What does it mean to be made in the image of God? How can that impact the way we see those on the margins?
5. What are some examples of Jesus moving toward those on the margins and extending His love?
6. Look at James 1:27 and Psalm 82:3–4. What is God's heart toward children?

ACTION

7. Consider these three groups of people who are marginalized: the prisoner, the unborn and the orphan. Consider your posture toward each group through these questions:
 - How often do you think of them? When you do, what's your posture and response? Be honest.
 - What might it you like for you to remember them and extend Christ's love to them?
8. Pray together that God would give our church a heart of compassion and obedience toward those on the margins.
